SUMMARY

I'm a passionate product designer specializing in UI/UX with a strong foundation in crafting visually engaging and user-centered experiences. Proficient in Figma, I focus on creating intuitive interfaces that balance aesthetics and functionality. Multilingual in English, Italian, Tagalog, and Ilokano, I bring a diverse perspective to design and collaboration. Eager to continue growing and contributing to innovative projects, I'm excited to connect and explore opportunities in the dynamic field of product design.

PERSONAL HOBBIES

When I step away from the computer, I immerse myself in a variety of activities that fuel my energy and passion for a balanced lifestyle. From hitting the gym to playing basketball and spending quality time with friends, staying active is a core part of who I am. The gym, in particular, is more than a hobby – it's a cornerstone of my life. In that dynamic space, I discover motivation, build discipline, and embrace the rewarding journey of pushing both my physical and mental limits. It's where I challenge myself, set ambitious goals, and find a deep sense of fulfillment.
